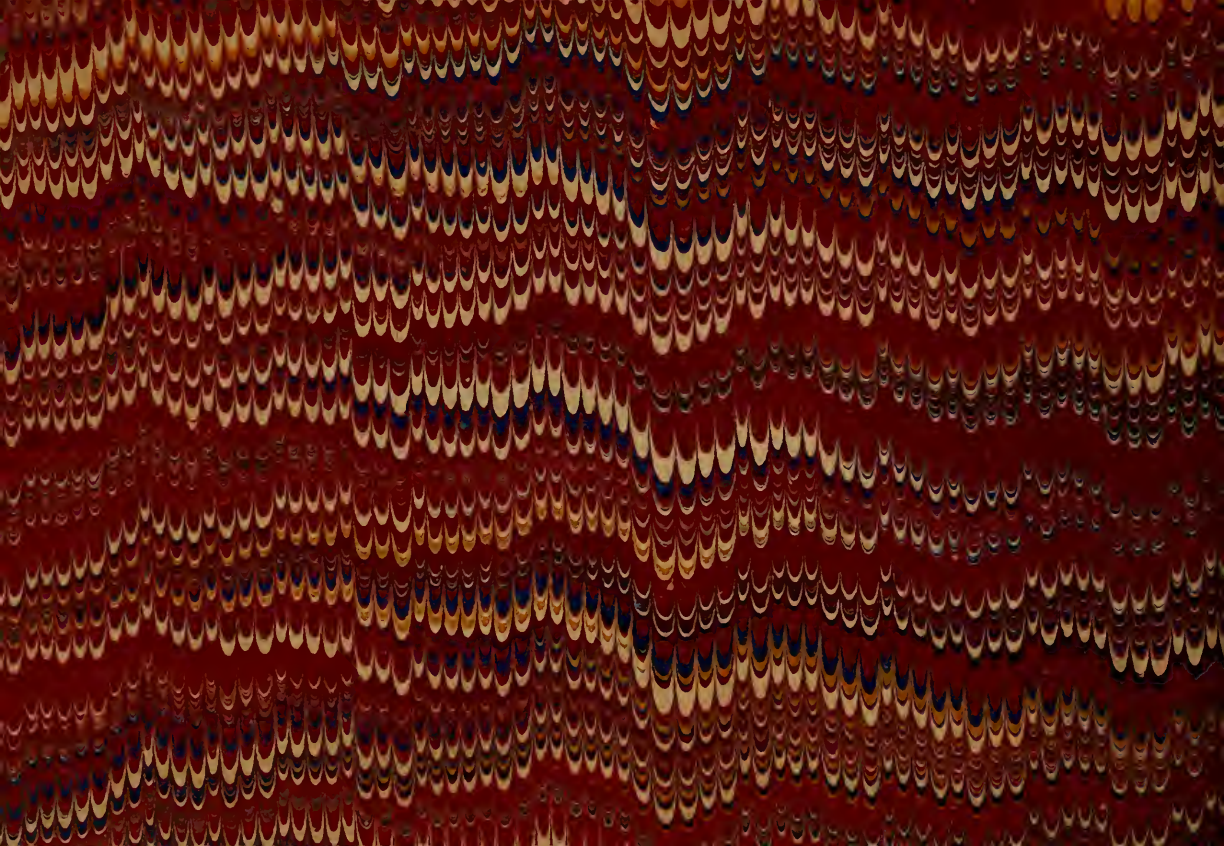
F
127
.G3B6

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS.

Chap. F127 Copyright No. .....

Shelf .G3B6.....

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA



Lake George.

BITS OF

LAKE GEORGE SCENERY.

CHAS. H. POSSONS, PUBLISHER.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS, COPYRIGHT JUN 23 1887 14132 CITY OF WASHINGTON

Copyrighted, 1887, by Chas. H. Possons.

F127
.B36

DESCRIPTIVE.

LAKE GEORGE is situated at the Southeastern margin of the Adirondack Wilderness, 32 miles North of Saratoga, 210 miles from New York, and 184 miles South of Montreal. It is 346 feet above tide-water, and 247 feet above Lake Champlain, into which it empties, at old Fort Ticonderoga. It is 35 miles long, but is so divided by clusters of islets or over-lapping promontories as to give the impression of a succession of Lakes, five in number. The Lake is from one to four miles wide. The first white man who is known to have seen Lake George was Father Jogues, who baptized it Lac du St. Sacrament in 1646. By the Iroquois it had been known as Andiatorcte, "Tail of the Lake." General Johnson gave the Lake its present name in 1755. The Islands—popularly supposed to equal the number of days in the year—number 220. Dark tradition, stirring romance, grim history, have marked the region round about Lake George and made it famous forever.

FORT WILLIAM HENRY HOTEL.

FORT WILLIAM HENRY HOTEL.

CALDWELL, FROM THE BEACH.

THE LAKE HOUSE.

REPRODUCED FROM STEEL ENGRAVING.

MARION HOTEL

THE SAGAMORE.

RECLUSE ISLAND.

LOOKING SOUTH FROM SAGAMORE DOCK.

LOOKING NORTHEAST FROM GREEN ISLAND.

THE BIRCHES ON SAGAMORE GROUNDS.

HUNDRED ISLANDS HOUSE

PEARL POINT HOUSE.

LOOKING NORTH FROM SUMMIT OF SHELVING ROCK.

PARADISE BAY.

BLACK MOUNTAIN, FROM PARADISE BAY.

SHELVING ROCK MOUNTAIN.

LOOKING SOUTH FROM FRENCH POINT

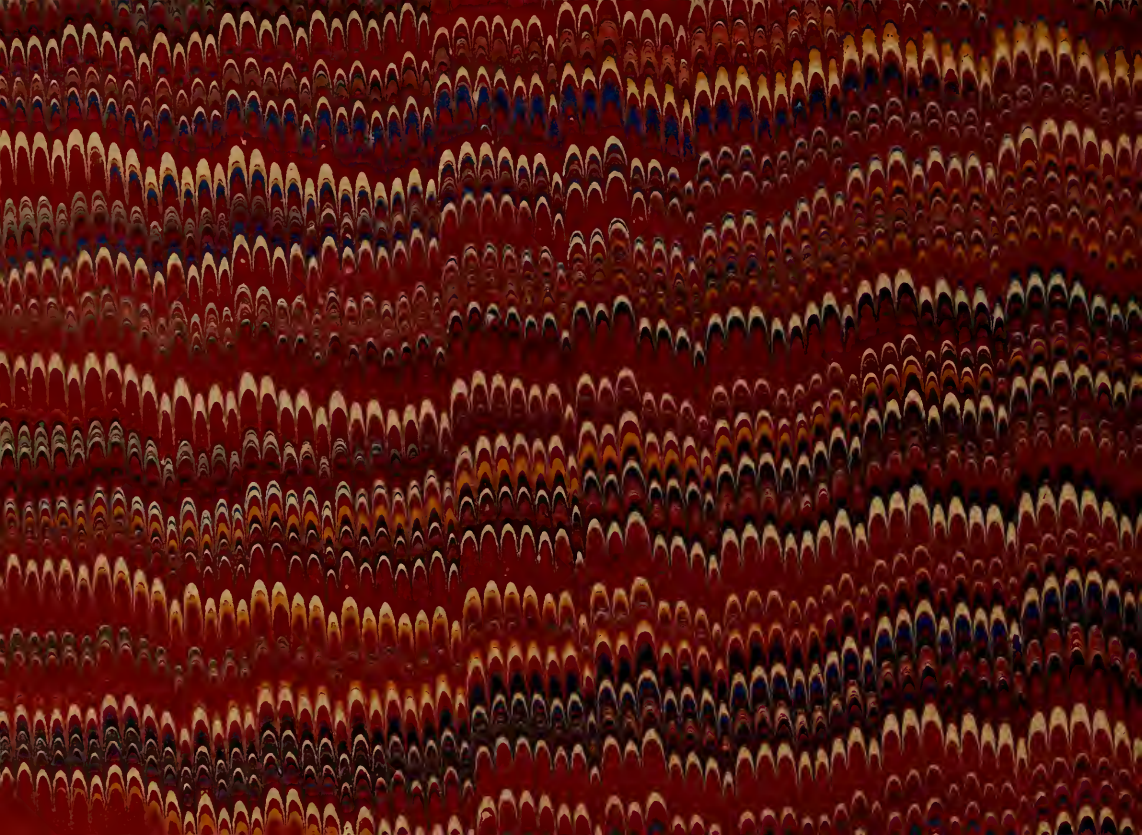
TWIN MOUNTAINS, FROM SABBATH DAY POINT.

HULETT'S LANDING.

ROGERS' ROCK HOTEL AND MOUNTAIN, FROM THE NORTH

LOOKING NORTH FROM SUMMIT OF ROGERS' ROCK.

RUINS OF FORT TICONDEROGA.



LIBRARY OF CONGRESS
0 014 107 620 6